

THE RETURN OF ERIC BARONE

A documentary by Emmbé & Castor

52'

Eric Barone, is the fastest man on a bike, with a record speed of 222,22km/h set in 1999. But he almost got killed in 2002 while attempting to break the record on dirt road on the cerro Negro volcano, Nicaragua. Coming so close to death changed the way he sees life.

Thirteen years after this violent crash, he decides to overcome his fears, and live his passion to the fullest. He sets off again in 2015 in an attempt to break his old speed record.

The film gathers unique archives and itv's with his closest friends and staff to decipher the will power and mindset of such a fearless champion.
