Among the variety of objects and works of art being sold every year in auction rooms, some are just exceptional: the way they are made or used, the changes of owners or destinations, in short their past life before being under the eyes of enthusiasts or envious outbidders. A series of many topics such as art history, the history of cultures and civilisations, the history of techniques and know-how and the evolution of society through the multifold uses and changing values attributed to these objects over time.
