FRENCH COASTLINES

A ten-part series to discover the coasts of France from above and from ground-level. The series probes the diversity of France's coastal regions in terms of nature, landscapes, architecture and culture. Each episode is an invitation to explore the history and culture of a particular coast, and to meet the people who, today, live on the coast, keep it alive and maintain it.

This programme sheds new light on the economic revolutions that originated on the coasts and furthers our understanding of the environmental issues we have to face.

Uncover the essence of these seashores that have contributed to making France as a nation, and find out about the intimate and intricate relationship between French people and the sea.

Detailed destinations on the back.
